

Hi Cedric,

I just recently saw the magnificent Stonehenge located on Salisbury Plains of Southern England.

Did you know it was built over 4500 years ago? Can you believe that some of these stone slabs weighed up to 45 tonnes 30km using to get them to the site. I wonder why they made this megalith, I read that scientists believed Stonehenge was made for religious, spiritual, or scientific purposes. What do you think? It's getting late here, I have to sleep, I'll send you another postcard when I visit the Nazca lines.

See you soon,
Christian

P.S. How is Mom and Dad doing?
